Bleeding Art Industries – We Create Cool...Animals!

One year old grizzly cub. This jointed stuffy was created to match real existing cubs on a TV series shoot. The cubs are now much older but we have immortalized one here in this fully jointed stuffy. Made from simulated nylon hairs punched into a 4 way stretch fabric, the fur moves nicely over the armature and gives great believability to the piece.

All the joints have an extended range of motion so that he can be put into many positions. He is one playful little critter.

The bear is even equipped with an access hole and the ribs are hinged for an air bladder to simulate breathing.

At over 40 inches long when extended, this piece is still extra light (under 100 pounds) easy handling.

This cub also has detachable incision sections for an operating scene. There are four detachable silicone pieces which simulate shaved fur, surgery incision, and two suture pieces.

If you are interested in this piece, it rents by the day ($350), week ($1050), and month ($3780). Incision sections are additional. Please contact us for more information including terms. Pricing is in Canadian dollars. Shipping, handling and GST charges are additional where applicable.
